PREFARATORY NOTICE.

PREFARATORY NOTICE.

The enterprise in which we now embark, and of which this paper is at once the commencemer; and a sample of the papers that are to follow, has for its aim no less a purpose, than to imparting struction, in the general and detail, to the Officer and Agents of the American public, in respect both to their duties and their rights, and to make them, and the people at large, acquainted with the organization, decisions and action of the Executive departments of their Government. There has hither to been no vehicle for the regular and proper communication of information of this kind. The publication of the Laws and the issue of metrue tions, more or less comprehensive, and at intervals communication of information of this kind. The publication of the Laws and the issue of instructions, more or less comprehensive, and at intervals more or less extended, have proved wholly inadequate, in the absence of the construction of those Laws, as applied to particular cases, and of details and illustrations to make the regulations and in structions intelligible. The valuable documents annually reported to Congress, are too voluminous, and are printed in quantities too small for general creulation; whilst the debates in Congress and the commenturies of the press upon their proceedings, and the proceedings of the Executive branch of the Government, besides turning mostly upon general principles, address themselves only to carry ends, and to maiters of national poincy! These publications in their various forms are highly useful in themselves as far as they go, and some of them indispensable; but there is much that do not reach the hands of all, nor if they did, do they furnish those rules, methods, and examples, for the despatch of the public business which can render the discharge of public duty either safe or easy, whether in respect to the incumbent himself, or the department or bureau ander which he acts. We shall make an honest effort to supply the vaccuum, and to provide for these necessities. The Congressional Globe and Appendix.

The Congressional Globe is made up of the daily proceedings of the two Houses of Congress, and printed on a double royal paper, with small type, (brevier and nonpareil,) in quarto form, each number containing sixteen royal quarto pages. The speeches of the Members, in this first form, are sometime condensed—the full report of the prepared speeches being reserved for the Appendix of the prepared speeches being reserved for the Appendix of the prepared speeches of the form of the Journaus, with the yeas and nays on every important quantion.

The APPENDUM made up of the President's Angual Message, the Reports of the principal officers of the Government management witten all Speeches of Members of Congress, written out or revised by themselves. It is printed in the Foreign, Fancy, and Staple Dry Goods.
